

Looking for a great technology partner? Start with integrity, quality and technical leadership.

A current iSOA Group client, a worldwide director of technology, shared his experience working with iSOA Group and the qualities that define a great technology partner: "In choosing and working with a technology vendor, it is important that we evaluate the relationship based on trust and communication lines."

He continued "I choose to work with iSOA because they deliver what they say with integrity, quality and technical leadership."

The right partner brings integrity, experience and a passion for your project, your business and pride in your success. They are also able to adjust their team to just the right size to fit your team, budget, and schedule.

What qualities make a great partner?

What our clients are saying:

- "The iSOA Group is 60-70% more effective than the large vendors."
- "iSOA group is a great technology partner and very customer focused."
- iSOA Group quality technical leadership saves money as they are "more efficient and overall cost is reduced as we get it right the first time."
- Great partners such as iSOA are strategic thinkers that provide "technical leadership and provided immense insights to technologies."
- At times working with "larger technology organizations... makes it difficult to find the true technical leads" and their resources can be very expensive.
